3. Public Comment

The following attendees offered public comment:

Mark Griffin

Mark Griffin, Director of Code Enforcement, Union County and NC Electrical Inspector Association – agreed with changes. Griffin stated that Level I should be restricted to residential applications, Level II would move into commercial applications, and Level III would be the unlimited commercial applications. Griffin also recommended removing the term “Levels”. In addition, Griffin suggested additional levels of certification (“rider”) for specialty items such as a PV, generators, etc. He feels that all trades should be listed independent from each other and leave rules open-ended for additional revisions that may arise in the future.

Fleming El-Amin asked Griffin how might the rider work. Griffin gave the example of PV certification needed for those inspectors holding a residential certificate, who had to inspect a PV system on a residence. The rider or specialize certificate, in addition to, the residential certificate would allow the inspector to perform the required inspection.

Mike Hejduk shared various responses given by NCBIA. The summary included that there were some that wanted to stay with the current system and others did not. In addition, some comments showed interest in having a Level 1 inspector that could do both residential and commercial inspections. Concerns were noted about how might the new organization might effect pay/incentives.

Hejduk also shared comments from NCFMA. They are interested in the times between levels. The organization would like to the the time requirement to be reduced. Hejduk encouraged them to take the existing rules and mark them up and submit their suggested revisions.

Roegner suggested next steps for staff to develop actual rule changes for the next Rules Review Committee meeting. Next meeting to be scheduled for September 2023 with a draft of proposed rule changes.

Michael Crotts motioned to adjourn the meeting. Fleming El-Amin second the motion. Meeting adjourned.
